

A chip shop on the VIVES campus would like some terminals that customers can use to order their meals to save time at the checkout.

Create an application like in the screenshot where you can see the available items on the front page and the items in the shopping cart. When you click on the checkout button, you will go to a payment page where you will see a summary of your order and buttons for different payment methods.

Also create the complete management system to add, edit or delete new items.
